Pledged To Combat Socialistic Trends In America

Dr. Theodore A. Distler, president of Franklin and Marshall College, is the head of a group pledged to combat socialistic trends in America. In the second of three articles written especially for International News Service, Dr. Distler describes the program of the group, known as "Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System (ACES)." The third article tomorrow will detail what ACES hopes to accomplish in its battle against Socialism in America.

By Dr. Theodore A. Distler
President, Franklin and

LANCASTER, Pa., June 2—(INS)—The educational, completely non-political program of ACES, which conceivably might be the blueprint for a national movement, is four-fold.

It includes (1) a speakers' bureau, (2) employers' guidance, (3) house-to-house visitation, (4) instruction of school and college students.

Already, more than 200 persons, virtually all of them experienced in public speaking, have signed up to carry ACES' message to the public, in meetings of organizations and over the radio.

They are armed with carefully prepared speech material and visual aids and given assignments at times and places convenient to them.

Under the second phase of the program, scheduled to start early in the fall, there will be seminars at which employers will be instructed on how to demonstrate to their workers the stake—higher wages, better living, greater freedom—all Americans have in the competitive enterprise system.

The seminars will be addressed by representatives of firms which have conducted employee programs with outstanding success.

Under the third part of its program, ACES will seek thousands of volunteers, "Fuller brush men for

Books For Adults and Young Folks Are Added

Books for 'teen-agers and children, as well as those for adults, have been added to the shelves of Bristol Library recently. The new additions to the list are as follows: Librarian Miss Mary A. Wilkinson announces:

"Jubilee Trail" (Bristow); "Midshipman Hornblower" (Forester); "The Wall" (Hersey); "The Town" (Reicher); "Kings Cavalier" (Shellabarger); "Pink House" (White); "Peabody Sisters of Salem" (Tharp); "Horse Mouth" (Cary); "I My Ancestor" (Ross); "The Right People" (Huston); "The Green Bough" (Ritter); "Three Bamboos" (Stanish); "Brading Collection" (Wentworth); "The Chain" (Wellman); "Device and Desire" (Welham); "Mirage" (Miller); "Elephant Walk" (Standish); "History of England" (6 volumes) (Hume); "Teen-Age Adventures" (Combs); "Teen-Age Outdoor Stories" (Owen); "Teen-Age Baseball Stories" (Owen); "Teen-Age Mystery Stories" (Owen).

FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1950

ORDEAL BY FIRE

There is little lucid commentary to be made on the subject of the funeral pyre that followed the collision of an electric trolley and a loaded gasoline truck in Chicago.
More than 30 were killed and a larger number injured. This is described as the worst traffic disaster involving a motor vehicle in the nation's history.

It takes a disaster of this magnitude to start officialdom looking into the whys and wherefores of the circumstances and what remedial action may be taken to prevent the public in the future. Toll of lives taken by trucks on the public highways is becoming more ghastly daily.

Laws prohibiting the transportation of gasoline on common carriers have long been on the books.
Every precaution is taken to safeguard the lives of road travelers while it is being carried in the familiar tank trucks. But no precaution and no law can anticipate a collision such as the one in Chicago.

There may be some merit in plans to lay out specific routes for gas loaded tank trucks in the future. Gasoline is a vital adjunct to keeping the nation's transportation lines alive and must be fed into normal distribution channels without a hitch. But no item—animal, vegetable or mineral—can be called an instrument of progress that demands the lives of a large number of people every so often, and takes them in a grisly ordeal by fire.

This sort of thing must not be allowed to happen again. That's what must be uppermost in the public mind as the charred remains of what started out as a trolley load of home bound people are buried.

$157,000,000 ERROR

It is impossible for a taxpayer to be even mildly impressed by the statement by Karl Bendetsen, Assistant Secretary of the Army, that overpayments of $157,000,000 in servicemen's dependency benefits were due to "haste." That is altogether too easy an explanation of what must have been thousands upon thousands of errors.

It is true that Congress urged upon the Army a "Get 'em paid philosophy," meaning that there should be no unnecessary delay.
Even so, there is no excuse for paying out as much as $157,000,- 000 in invalid claims. Somewhere along the line carelessness must have been the rule rather than the exception.

Fortunately for the taxpayers, some of this loss has been made up. More than $83,000,000 has been recovered in cash and some additional sums probably will flow back into the Treasury. But at least $25,000,000 has been labeled "uncollectible" and $15,- 000,000 in overpayments has been forgiven because collection would work serious hardship.

All in all, it is not an inspiring example of federal bookkeeping.

President Truman has to find a job for Senator Pepper, recently defeated in Florida. Why not trade him to Stalin for a couple of good plowhands?

CHURCHES FEATURE OUTSTANDING EVENTS AT SERVICES FOR SUNDAY AND FOLLOWING WEEK

GIFTS TO ST. PAUL'S TO HONOR MEMORY OF L. GERTRUDE BRIGHT

A distinguished Bucks County woman has been remembered in two memorial gifts to St. Paul's Episcopal Chapel in Edgely. She is the late Miss L. Gertrude Bright who had been Bucks County probate officer for 18 years. She was active in welfare work in Bucks County and Philadelphia for more than 40 years. In co-operation with President Judge Hiram Keller she worked to establish the juvenile court in Bucks County.

Miss Bright was particularly known for her devotion to work among children and young people. She remained in touch with all with whom she came in contact, and was concerned that they should be active communicants in the church of their choice.

Shortly before her death on March 3, 1950, Miss Bright expressed the desire to make permanent gift of some kind to St. Paul's Chapel. After her death a number of her relatives decided to carry out her wish in a way which would suggest the primary concern of her life—a self-sacrificing interest in children. As the result two memorial gifts will be dedicated on Trinity Sunday, June 4th. One is a brass processional cross. The other is a silver ewer. These gifts will be used for the first time in connection with Holy Baptism in the 9:30 service Sunday. Contributors toward these memorial gifts include: Miss Alice G. Bright, Robert Bright, Mr. and Mrs. A. Radford Quigley, Mrs. Honor Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Bright, and Mrs. Frank Devlin.

The service will be at 9:30, with morning prayer, Holy Baptism and sermon, David Crawford and Barbara Smyrl are to be baptized, the vicar, the Rev. Stanley A. Powell, Jr., will preach.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Politics and Economics

Washington, June 2
THERE is no act upon the statute books to prevent any appointee of the President from active participation in politics. But there exists an unwritten law which holds that such participation by members of certain boards, courts and commissions is not only bad taste and unethical, but grossly improper.

Monday, no one has called the attention of Mr. Leon Keyserling, the new chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, to this law. Or, perhaps he regards unwritten laws as an invention of the "reactionaries" designed to hamper "forward-looking men" and retard our progress toward the light. Likely, too, he considers—and these matters of taste and ethics were relegated to the rear in the old New Deal days. And he looks upon any attempt to revive them now as distinctly a backward step.

NEVERTHELESS, there has been considerable criticism concerning the zest and speed with which, almost immediately after his appointment to the chairmanship, Mr. Keyserling tore out to Chicago and there plunged into the big political demonstration arranged by the Democratic National Committee to coincide with Mr. Truman's presence. The Keyserling participation included making a vigorous speech strictly along Keyserling lines. It is an understatement to say that this did not please a good many here and elsewhere who believe the board which Mr. Keyserling now heads is one of those which should hold itself completely aloof from partisan politics. Their contention is that the economic advice which the President receives from this board ought not only to be entirely free from political flavor but should not have the slightest appearance of being politically flavored. For the good of the nation as a whole the administration economics ought always be kept divorced from politics. Politics and economics should never be mixed.

THAT is the view of the Keyserling critics but, sound as it seems, quite evidently it isn't the Keyserling view. One of Mr. Keyserling's most eloquent journalistic friends asserts that Mr. Keyserling, along with Mr. Clark Clifford, now engaged in the lucrative practice of law in Washington but for some years Mr. Truman's chief speech writer and aide, was the real architect of the so-called "Fair Deal" and, therefore, feels it incumbent upon him to promote it in every way possible. One of the ways, naturally, is by keeping Mr. Truman, who named him to this post, in the White House, thus keeping out any President who would do away not only with the "Fair Deal" but with Mr. Keyserling, its architect, as well.

MR. KEYSERLING'S recent political splash in Chicago appears to bear out this idea. Probably, from his standpoint, it is defensible conduct and Mr. Keyserling is always able to present a plausible defense.

DENTIST

But it seems completely indefensible to those who feel that to be worth anything the advice which Mr. Truman gets from his Council of Economic Advisors ought to be unflavored by either politics or the personal predilection of its members. They contend that Mr. Keyserling, as an active and partisan politician, makes utterly worthless any economic advice coming from a board headed by himself. Further, it destroys the prestige and influence of the board and is wholly out of character with its supposed function. Under Mr. Keyserling, it is held, the board becomes, in fact, a propaganda machine and a political agency.

IT WILL be recalled that Dr. Nourse, former chairman and a man of high reputation as an economist, strongly believed the council should shun politics and propaganda and, it is understood, resigned because of his inability to see eye to eye in this with Mr. Keyserling and his colleague, Mr. Clark. It will be further recalled that the President let more than six months go by after Dr. Nourse's resignation during which time it was understood he was seeking a first-grade economist willing to serve with Mr. Keyserling and Mr. Clark. Under the circumstances, the appointment of Mr. Keyserling after this long interval is not too complimentary to him.

HOWEVER, his friends are rather disposed to laugh at the criticism of his political activity. Their theory is that most of the people who do the voting read the comics and sports in the newspapers but very few, indeed, pay attention to editorials and columnar comment. Perhaps they are right. Therefore, however blatant and offensive Mr. Keyserling's political participation, criticism may do him no harm. In any event, it will not prevent him from intermittently issuing long, solemn economic prognostications in supporting the "Fair Deal." And exactly the same people who now take him seriously as an economist will continue to do so. Quite generally, in business circles, his selection is regarded as a calamity. His weird economic policies, it is contended, are fitted to Mr. Truman's political policies. This means more pump-priming, deeper deficits, higher debts—in brief, inflation. For those who do not regard these things as desirable the only hope is that this Congress will continue to be what Mr. Truman calls "obstructionist" and that the one to be elected in November will be more so.

6TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Billy Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell, Fleetwing Estates, entertained some young friends at his home on May 27, marking his 6th birthday anniversary. Party participants were: "Tommy" Green, David and Michael Gravatt, "Danny" Hardin, and Bobby Powell. The boys played games, and enjoyed ice cream and cake, then were given baskets of candy for favors.

Promotion Problems Are Near

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

AROUND this time of year a great many parents are beginning to have anxiety over the child's progress at school. Will he "pass" and be promoted to the next grade?

In some schools the child may be sent on to the next grade more or less regardless of whether he has attained the standard for his grade—wholesale promotion. But the intelligent parent wants to know what this child's chances for future school progress are.

While we usually are wise to leave it to the school to decide to what grade-level the child shall be assigned for next fall, we feel we should try to do something about the matter.

Unfortunately, parents of the child known to be lagging far behind at school are inclined to charge him with indifference or laziness, to shame, scold and punish him.

Talk With Teacher

By talking with the teacher, the parent might discover in what special ways this child has learning difficulties and how he might be helped by his parents at home, or by a skilful teacher employed to tutor him for short periods several days a week. Usually such a helper can do far better with the child than can his parents. There are a good many children now till school vacation begins, could make tremendous improvement. Others, who also might profit from such help, may be so far in arrears as not to be able to make the gains expected. Even so, the advantage won for their future success may be very great. Always we must try to use our heads, be reasonable and have the child's progress in mind.

Sometimes the child's trouble is with a single subject, especially reading. Now reading is basic in all subjects beyond the first few grades. As a rule, the child who fails in history, geography, science and the like, fails to read well enough to learn from his books in these subjects. (My home help bulletins in reading, spelling and arithmetic, also my bulletin "Tips for Students," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper.)

Psychologist At School

If there is a psychologist or a reading expert or both at school, seek help from them. Otherwise get from your school principal the name of reliable experts in these fields. You shall be professionally safe also if you get in touch with the psychology department of your nearest college or university.

In many cases it may be necessary to persuade or require the child to be home on nights before school and go at his homework in a systematic manner. But we must remember that his going through such forms of regularity won't guarantee efficient study.

COMMUNICATION

Editor, Courier:

It is our custom to visit Bristol every Saturday afternoon and fish for sunfish in the canal. We enjoy this sport and always return our fish unharmed since our interest is in sport only. Saturday our visit was not so pleasant, however. We discovered that from the first lock above Bristol Pike and upstream along the canal to the park there were literally thousands of dead and dying sunfish and a few game fish as well. The fish were not only poisoned but the aquatic vegetation was shriveled in much the same fashion as weeds that are burned. The waters along and above the park didn't seem to be affected, making it apparent that the source of pollution was below the park. It is needless to say that the stench was appalling. Not residing in Bristol, I have no idea as to the source of the deadly effluent. It is obvious that some form of pollution was present, and most likely an industrial pollution. Such waste of public waters and fish is unnecessary and illegal and I believe it is possible for your journal to bring forth public indignation and enforce existing legislation. The lower portion of the canal creates a lot of recreation for children and helps keep them off the street. It is also important to picnickers and strollers and Bristol is fortunate in having the Canal area. An advanced municipality such as yours need not condone such filth.

I thank you for your fine publication.

ARE YOUR RECORDS FULLY PROTECTED?

If fire wiped out your business—as happens to many companies in this country every day—would you have the records to prove your loss? Remember your fire insurance contract obligates you to produce the inventory, bills, invoices and other factual evidence on which the settlement will be made.

Without such records after a fire your day in court would find you empty handed—you would have to accept an adjustment instead of a full settlement.

Numerous Awards Given Graduates At Springfield

PLEASANT VALLEY, June 2 — A number of awards have been presented to members of this year's graduating class of Springfield-Durham high school. The winner of an essay contest, "Why Democracy Works," was Lillian Andre. The contest was sponsored by a Bristol lodge.

Roland Mease was the winner of an award at the Tri-County Future Farmers of America tractor driving contest at Hatfield, and the Keystone Farmer award went to Charles Gale at the State farm show in Harrisburg the past winter.

Grace Price, president of the student council, was the winner of the American Legion award.

Dorothy Schultz, who will serve as the valedictorian at the commencement at Springfield Church, has been awarded a scholarship offered by the alumni association of Ursinus College. A poem, "Whispers of Winter," by Miss Schultz recently appeared in a well-known publication.

The members of the junior class a few nights ago presented a play, "Aunt Cathie's Cat," before a large audience.

Health Society Meets And Names Officers

The annual meeting of the Bucks County Tuberculosis and Health Society was held Monday evening at the office of the Society, Doylestown, Dr. A. J. Strathie, president, presiding.

The Society will sponsor four applicants to attend the Health Education Work Shop at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, June 26 to July 15. A report of the meeting held in Reading May 23-27 by the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society and attended by Mrs. Emma C. Stover, ex-secretary, and Mrs. Minerva Epstein, health educator, was given by Mrs. Stover.

The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: Dr. A. J. Strathie, president; Mrs. Redding H. Rufe, vice president; Mrs. Mary M. Layman, treasurer; Mrs. Emma C. Stover, executive secretary.

The next chest X-ray survey sponsored by the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society will be the week of September 26th and October 1, 1950.

Dr. John Prickett gave a most interesting talk on "What is TB, and how do the doctors find it?" He illustrated his lecture with X-rays, slides and cultures.

LONGER TERMS

CHICAGO, (INS) — More states are lengthening the term of office for their governors, the Council of State Governments reports. Statistics compiled for the 1950-51 Book of the States show that 27 states currently have four year governor's terms. Effective with the inauguration of its chief executive in January, 1951, Connecticut will become the 28th state to provide a four year term for governor.

How About It, Governor?

mentioned. The Highway Fund surplus for the second Martin biennium will be found on page 49 of the 14th Biennial Budget Message, dated February 1, 1949, and issued, of course, by Governor Duff himself. The amount is: $94,793,000.

The figure for the total of pre-financed post-war projects left by Governor Martin to Governor Duff requires a bit more digging. Governor Duff seems never to have been willing to give full credit to his predecessor for this contribution, in which was embodied a good deal of what later came to be known as the "Duff Program."

Turn to page 6 of the 13th Biennial Budget Message, and you will find the statement, over Governor Duff's signature, that the Martin Administration "established a $76,235,000 program of postwar projects." On the next page, page 7, you will find this statement: "the appropriation for the postwar program of projects remains largely unexpended."

The same Budget Messages show miscellaneous cash balances in various funds, other than sinking funds, totalling about $4,000,000 at the outset of the Duff Administration.

Total these cash surpluses, AS SHOWN BY GOVERNOR DUFF'S OWN FIGURES, and what sum do you get?

They show a total of $191,028,000 left by Governor Martin in Governor Duff's hands as a sort of Christmas present—biggest surplus ever turned over by any Pennsylvania Governor to his successor!

What earthly good does it do Governor Duff to pretend to deny these figures, especially when it is his own signed reports which are the proof of their accuracy?

What is he trying to do? And how much faith can anyone have in his statements on other financial issues, when he is so far at variance from the truth in these?

Governor Duff, as the Republican Party's hope and champion in the coming general election, it is up to you to clear up this tangle of misinformation you have created.

There are a good many Republicans who didn't vote for you in the primary would now like to look forward to supporting you in the fall.

But they are not going to be happy about supporting you if they are to be called upon to pretend to believe nonsensical statistics which fall apart at the first inspection.

Let's have a factual report from you on this much disputed financial issue, and let's have it before the Republican State Committee meeting June 10.

Put the cards on the table. How much cash surplus did you inherit from your two predecessors, James and Martin? How much will the repayment of all the borrowing programs you have initiated cost the future citizens of Pennsylvania, in principal and interest? Will there or won't there be a substantial relief deficit—$50,000,000 or so; and if not, by what process of magic do you plan to avoid it, considering the present status of appropriation and expenditures? And give us more details about the $150,000,000 new taxes which you now concede the next Governor must raise? Is that the total—or just part of it?

The Republicans took you on faith, despite your refusal to stand up and answer questions on your record and your position on public issues.

But the whole people of the state are entitled to have, and will demand, a full accounting of your stewardship long before the General Election.

Let's have the facts, Governor!

plain it to the board. Miss Edna M. Pennypacker, chairman of the committee, along with Miss M. Ivy Foley and Miss Betty L. Drawbaugh also members of the committee were present.

Miss Pennypacker explained the new card and stated that a copy of the report card and comment card which is part of the new report card, along with a letter explaining it to the parents of all school children, has been issued. Miss Foley in her comments said this new card gives the slow learner a better chance to make a better mark at the end of the school term. Miss Drawbaugh said that it gives the parents a chance to make comments on how their child is doing and also will help make the parents feel that they have a part in shaping their child's education.

The board discussed the report card and asked several questions which the committee answered. The board voted to adopt the card and gave the committee a vote of thanks for the work they have done in making up the new card.

Discussion of possible sites for future building of schools in the township was the next order of business for the board. A lot of the suggested sites looked at so far are not for sale, according to the committee. If state aid is wanted ground must meet specifications of the state authority. The township is growing and there is not too much ground to be had where you want it at the present time. According to the committee.

John Allman reported that Joseph Wignore was a very good architect as far as he was able to find out. He stated that he had made several inquiries about him and the reports he received were all good and recommended that he be hired by the Board for the Croydon school to be built in the very near future. The board acting on this recommendation passed a motion to engage Mr. Wignore for the Croydon project subject to his acceptance.

One new teacher for the third grade at Maple Shade school was engaged. The teacher is Miss Jean Alice Greenawalt.

Maintenance work to be done during the summer months was discussed and many jobs of cleaning, installing of lights, and repairing of the schools are to be done.

The following bids were received for school supplies. Only one bid was received for each of the two items wanted. Garrett-Deuchan Company, Phila., was the only company to bid on the tables and chairs. The bid $12.70 for each of the 17 tables needed and $6.15 and $6.40 for the 72 chairs of different sizes needed was accepted and the contract awarded.

For general school supplies Broadhead Garrett Co. was the only bidder. Their bid was $390.70 for the supplies. The board awarded the contract to this company.

Miss Marion E. Barth, Croydon, was hired as a secretary for the township school district. She graduates this year from Bristol high school.

A letter was read from the Laurel Bend P.T.A. stating that Bristol Terrace did not have a P.T.A. and most of the children from there went to the Laurel Bend school, so wanted permission to hold joint meetings of Laurel Bend and the Terrace in the school building there every other month. The board granted the permission. Another letter was read also from the Laurel Bend P. T. A. donating a motion picture projector and three radios to the school. The board accepted the gifts with thanks.

Walter D. Miller reported that a telephone was needed at the school in Bristol Terrace the board decided to contract for one. Miller also reported that lights are needed over several of the doors in different schools in the township. This was turned over to the building committee to investigate.

Russell Straub reported that the Maple Shade and Newportville P. T. A. was going to install three more pieces of playground equipment at the Maple Shade and Newportville schools. The board accepted these gifts with thanks.

Edgar Spencer resigned as vice president and William Clifton resigned as president. Clarence Young, secretary of the board took over the meeting and asked for nominations for the office of president. Edgar Spencer was nominated and the nominations were closed. The secretary was instructed to cast the ballot. Mr. Spencer then took the chair. He thanked the board for the honor given him. He called for nominations for the office of vice-president. John Allman was nominated. The term of William Knight, treasurer, expires with this meeting so Spencer called for nominations for the office of treasurer. William Clifton was nominated and the nominations were closed. The secretary was instructed to cast the ballots for the two offices.

The summer music schedule to be held at the junior high school under the supervision of Robert S. Miller was announced as follows: Registration: The week of June 5th, the first session opens Monday, June 19th, with no lessons on July 3rd or 4th and closes on Friday, July 7th. The second session opens Monday, July 24th, and closes Friday, August 25th. This makes a total of 38 days

10th Season Will Open At Bucks Co. Playhouse

NEW HOPE, June 2 — The gala opening of the Bucks County Playhouse this evening is more than the premiere of the 1950 summer season. It also marks the commencement of the tenth year of operation under management of Theron Bamberger, during which time the Playhouse has achieved a national reputation and is said to be recognized as the top-ranking summer theatre in the country, despite the fact that many others in the "straw-hat" circuit are older and larger.

Ruth Chatterton, glamorous star of stage and screen, will inaugurate this important season in "The Smile of the World," a highly diverting comedy by Garson Kanin, author of "Born Yesterday." In former years Miss Chatterton acted for the Playhouse in "Private Lives" and in "Caprice." She has become an even more important personage now, since she has distinguished herself as a novelist; her first book "Homeward Bound" is one of this spring's best-sellers. Featured in the cast as a young man who falls in love with a vivid Washington hostess (played by Miss Chatterton) is Donald Buka, who has just returned from Hollywood where he acted the lead role in the motion picture "Prowl Car." Another featured role will be played by Harry Mahaffey, and the rest of the cast, directed by Henry Jones, includes Ruth Amos, Elizabeth Dewing, of the original Broadway company, John Marriott, Pauline Myers, James Doohan and Robert Caldwell. David Reppa designed the setting. "The Smile of the World" will play through June 10th with three matinees, June 3rd, 7th and 10th. Thereafter each new play will open on Monday and run for one week with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By Al Spivak
(I. N. S. Penna. Farm Editor)
HARRISBURG, June 2—(INS)—The case of Pennsylvania's potato growers versus federal price supports is heading toward a showdown.

U. S. Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan is weighing strong words of opposition lodged by the Pennsylvania Potato Growers Association.

Brannan will determine whether to ask the State's farmers in a referendum whether they want a potato marketing agreement this year.

The agreement would affect all potato growers of three or more acres, according to State Production and Marketing Committee Chairman Clyde A. Zehner.

"The agreement as proposed for Pennsylvania would be administered by a local committee totaling 18 members, made up of two producers and one handler from each of the six districts to be established," Zehner said.

"This committee would recommend to the Secretary of Agriculture any necessary regulations on shipments of potatoes by grade, size, maturity and quantity."

The proposed agreement is aimed at achieving orderly marketing of potatoes, Zehner said, and is separate from price support and acreage allotment legislation.

"However," he said, "Congress recently passed a resolution making marketing agreement programs in commercial areas a condition of price support on the 1950 crop."

Brannan must decide whether commercial growers in the state will vote in a referendum with at least 67 per cent affirmative votes necessary for approval.

PIGA President Hugh McPherson charged at a Harrisburg hearing that the federal program restricts Pennsylvania's potato acreage while permitting other states to expand their crops.

Maine's potato growers produced 60 million bushels last year, he said, while Pennsylvania's produced only 19 million.

"Much of this difference is caused by the fact that Federal Marketing agreements and price supports are serving to hold down potato acreage in the commonwealth," he said.

During the past 28 months Pennsylvania farmers have experienced a 22 per cent dip in the prices they receive, according to State Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst.

This is one per cent more than the national average, Horst said. Meanwhile, prices paid by the State's farmers for labor, food, feed and other goods have dropped only four per cent, he added.

Powell denied he was instrumental in obtaining passage of a bill which facilitated the controversial transaction, stating he had nothing to do with the measure.

Robert M. Sheritt, president of the Sarjeim Corp. of Chicago, an enterprise which buys up utilities, reclassifies their stock and then places them on the market, also came in for heavy questioning.

Sheritt told the court he bought up 80 per cent of the Tacony-Palmira bridge stock for $6,487,500 after floating a loan for that sum from the Chemical Bank and Trust Co. of New York. Instead of dealing directly with the county, Sheritt sold his stock to the Burlington Bridge Co.

The Human Personal at

Pentecost

The Bible is explicit in describing those who were present, in the upper room, on the Day of Pentecost. There were the 11 apostles, (Judas missing,) the women, who had ministered to Him, and stood by even at the cross, Mary, the mother of Jesus, just one with the others, and His brethren, who had probably been convinced, and converted when they knew that He was alive after being crucified, and others, making about 120 in all. The Holy Spirit, as cloven tongues of fire sat upon each of them; men and women alike; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak as the Spirit gave them utterance.

On that day, no difference between male and female. Why the difference today?

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

They're here . . . once again this year the Bristol and Edgely clubs are going to raise pheasants . . . for their members, for non-members, for the sportsman and the meat-hunter, for the boys who never loan a hand but who are always afield on November 1st, for the grippers who are never satisfied, in fact, for the entire hunting fraternity.

The Game Commission furnishes the pheasants (as day-old chicks) and five pounds of feed per bird (which isn't enough) and the rest is up to the two local clubs.

The birds will be raised again this year by George Bintliff, Sr., Edgely avenue, Edgely, and I know he'll be pleased if we stop by the pens occasionally to observe the progress of this venture. George, by the way, has acquired a knowledge of pheasant raising that has put him near the top of the list for low mortality percentages.

John Johnson and Harry Bossler drove to the Eastern State Game Farm at Schwenksville on Tuesday and delivered the 250 birds to Edgely.

Bass plugging . . . during the last several weeks a lot of bass plugs have been cast at various spots along the Canal by those who chose not to bother with laws and regulations (bass and pickerel season opens July 1st). Some few of them have been apprehended by State Fish Warden Harry Cole with bass in their possession. They paid for their thoughtless actions. To those of you who have become over-anxious . . . won't you desist until the official opening so that we can all share the thrills of baitcasting together!

Shoot this Sunday . . . the Newportville Rod & Gun Club will hold a Lewis Class shoot this Sunday over the Club's traps near Lake Louise, Eddington, beginning at 12 noon. All shooters are welcome to shoot, with participation in the Lewis Class event optional.

Plenty of mackerel . . . seven local anglers, fishing out of Barnegat last Sunday came home with more than 200 mackerel, averaging about 2 pounds each. Although the trip was rough, some boats being barred from venturing outside, the men really hit a day of sport. Included in the group were Walter Poullette, John Choma, Ed DeKoyter, Ted Downing, Joe Repas, Howard Smoyer and Clem Smoyer.

Scores . . . first class money in the Lewis Class bluerock shoot run by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association over the club's traps near Silver Lake was split two ways when Bill Quinn, local veteran, and F. Flanders, New Jersey sharpshooter, each smashed 49 out of a possible 50 targets. Fifty-five men shot at 1750 targets during the afternoon.

Four men, F. R. Davies, Dr. Wm. Brodsh, B. Cassalia, Sr., and N. DeFrank, all posted 46 to share second place honors. Joe King, G. Good and B. Cassalia, Jr., each posted a 42 to share third place position. W. Wurz and W. W. Warner each had a 42, while W. MacSherry posted a 40.

The following scores were posted in the practice matches: F. Flanders, 25; J. P. Larry, 25; W. Quinn, 24; F. R. Davies, 23; W. MacSherry, 23; B. Cassalia, Sr., 23; G. Good, 23; G. Cobleigh, 23; L. Robinson, 22; W. W. Warner, 22; W. Wurz, 22; V. Carney, 20; E. Yorty, Sr., 19; H. Ely, 19; N. Rubino, 18.

In the doubles events Dr. Brodsh was high gun with a 20 out of 24. W. Quinn had a 19 in this event, while Cobleigh posted an 18 and B. Cassalia had a 16.

Meeting . . . next Monday, June 5, delegates from the County's organized sportsmen's clubs will meet in Doylestown at 8 p. m. for the June meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. All clubs are urged to have their delegates in attendance for some very important business transactions.

Our natural resources . . . a short time ago, Jack Van Coevering, a leading Michigan outdoor writer, said: "The Wildlife Conservationist thinks beyond his contacts with bears, bobwhites, hares, and bumblebees and discovers all these as merely end products of a bountiful nature. He focuses his attention on the resources that are essential to life, rather than living."

"All the rabbits, pheasants, deer, squirrels, bluegills, bass, and trout in the world are merely proof that water and soil remain productive. When rabbits disappear, hungry days are ahead for mankind. When ducks become scarce, it may mean that man has pressed his drainage plans too far. When birds no longer sing, the silence of the skies may forecast the ominous age of insects."

SPORT NOTES

"Benny" Samsel, who twirled for Bensalem Township and later pitched in the Bristol Suburban Baseball League before receiving a minor league try-out, has been converted into a third baseman by the management of the York team in the Interstate League. Samsel has been playing this position regularly since the conversion.

Those youngsters who stand on the railroad bank at Memorial park baseball field waiting for the fouls to clear the tracks when they can "cop" the balls are taking a chance with their lives. Many times, the youngsters chase after the ball without looking to see if a train is coming. Something should be done about it, before it is too late.

"Ed" Woodrow, one of the Trenton Catholic High tackles, who played against Bristol last season, will play with the East team against the West eleven on August 10th at Memphis, Tenn., in the second annual All-America High School all-star game.

Four members of last season's Trenton Catholic's football team have received scholarships at Villanova College.

"Bob" Felver, Morrisville High athlete, who has won 14 letters in his four years of high school, will enter Peddie Institute at Hightstown, N. J., in the fall.

That was quite a bit of sportsmanship shown by Frank Linck, Edgely youngster, in the Youth Week track and field meet. Not many boys would have stopped to help an opponent to his feet when a nice trophy was at stake. But Linck

YOUTH LEAGUE TO OPEN SEASON SUNDAY, JUNE 11TH

The Bristol Youth Baseball League will open its season on Sunday, June 11th. Managers of the teams of the circuit have been meeting for the past three weeks to draw up a constitution. It will be the ninth season for the Youth League.

According to a new rule passed for this season, the teams will be permitted two players who are 18 years of age. The others must all be under 18.

Teams and their managers are as follows: Bristol Terrace, Joseph Rinkley; Harriman, Stan Lelinski; Croydon, Harry McGuckin; Newportville, Herman Steubing; St. Francis Vocational School, Brother Edwin Anthony. St. Francis recently replaced Bristol Township as one of the teams of the loop.

The annual Lower Bucks County track and field meet, both senior and junior high schools, will be held Saturday on the Robert Morris grounds, Morrisville.

The meet will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and will run until all events are completed.

Bristol High will be defending both the junior and senior high championships.
